STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Ceresvill Stone Quarry, an industrial site of the early nineteenth century, is situated on the tract of land called Ceresville, a six hundred acre tract of land. William Williams, the operator of a ferry over the Monocacy River at Ceresville and the builder of Ceresville Mills and a manor house, was the first to tap the wealth of blue-grey limestone found on this site. ¹ The Ceresville Mills building was constructed of limestone quarried from this site. In addition, a number of local and commercial residences were constructed of this stone.
